

Sami Jenkins
2008-2009 FCCLA National
Vice-President of Finance

“Just because something is difficult doesn’t mean you shouldn’t try... It means you should try harder.” ~Anonymous

These are simple but powerful words. Sami Jenkins is a senior at Turner Ashby High School in Bridgewater, Virginia, and believes in this quote wholeheartedly. This year Sami is serving as the National Vice-President of Finance. Since learning about FCCLA in middle school she has been actively involved. As a freshman Sami observed as the chapter officers created unique projects that helped students learn and still have fun. It wasn’t until the first state conference that she realized just how influential this organization is. After returning from the conference, Sami instantly started preparing to run for a state office. Although serving as the Vice-President of Parliamentary Law was an experience that she had never imagined, she felt there was more that she could do to help people learn about the experiences that FCCLA can offer. She hopes to inspire others to be themselves, and pursue their dreams.

Other than FCCLA Sami is involved in National Honor Society, Ruri-Teen, and has been dancing for 13 years. She was a member of the Shenandoah Contemporary Dance Theatre for the past 2 years.

Sami is excited about what this year will bring, and wants to remind you that just because something is difficult doesn’t mean you shouldn’t try... it means you should try harder.
